PROFILE

After 4 years in a client facing role at Meltwater, I felt a need to understand how the tech that my job relied actually on worked. As a result I've recently completed the Le Wagon coding bootcamp. I'm looking to combine my previous experience understanding business priorities at Meltwater with my newfound coding skills.

PROJECTS

Perkk

Team Leader

Perkk was a project that I pitched with an aim to give employees greater choice in their workplace perks. After being chosen it was worked on by a team of four. My role was that of team lead which required clear management of planning and the github workflow. The project was compelted a day early with the major challenges being the integration of a range of JS functionality to bring the project to life.
